

INTRODUCTION: 1974 Style™ is a set of free, familiar, and easily modifiable role-playing game rules suitable for Fantasy, Pulp, Horror, Western and Sci-Fi Adventures.

A typical old-school RPG module stats list for a monster looks like this: AC6, MV9, HD 1, hp 4, #AT1, D1-10 by halberd. The 1974 Style rules use these same stats for player characters (PCs).

Character stats can fit on a 3x5 or 4x6 card, and all the rules for a given game and setting can fit on a single sheet of paper.

Download these rules and other resources from www.rpgsociety.org/1974.

CORE RULES

CHARACTERS

To create a new character, do the following:

CHOOSE A PROFESSION: Pick a profession that suits your character concept and setting.

CHOOSE WEAPONS: Choose three weapons, or two weapons and a shield. Weapons do damage (D) based on weapon class (light, normal, heavy, elite or artillery).

Weapon	Examples	D
Light ¹	Dagger, Sling	1d4
Normal	Sword, Pistol, Rifle	1d6
Heavy ²	2-Handed Sword, Pole-arm, Elephant Gun	1d8
Elite	Magic Sword, Alien Rifle, Weird Science Gun	1d10
Artillery ³	Ballista, Catapult, Cannons, Gatling Gun	2d6 to 4d6

² Takes two turns to use or requires both hands.

³ Damage follows the Hazard rules.

CHOOSE ARMOR: Choose an armor. This gives your player character (PC) an armor class (AC) and a movement rate (MV).

Armor	Examples	AC	MV
None	—	10	12
Light	Leather, Duster	11	9
Medium	Chainmail, Kevlar	12	6
Heavy	Plate mail, Battlesuit	15	3
Shield	—	+1	-1

DETERMINE MOVE RATE (MV): Base MV = 12, less armor MV penalty (see table above).

DETERMINE ARMOR CLASS (AC): Base AC = 10 + Armor bonus (see table above).

DETERMINE HIT POINTS (HP): PCs and NPCs roll 1d6+2 per level/HD for hit points.

DETERMINE NAME AND DESCRIPTION: Choose a name and a description. Choose a race or species if your setting has them (some races will give a Specialty Skills bonus but otherwise have no rules effect).

Your character is now ready!

ADVANCEMENT

In short-term games, don't track experience.

In an ongoing campaign, PCs start at level 1 with 0 XP. The GM awards 1-3 XP per session (typically 2). With each 5 XP, you advance a level.

There are no limits to levels. Gaining a new level means a higher bonus to d20 rolls and another 1d6+2 hit points.

COMBAT

DETERMINE INITIATIVE: Roll d20 + MV; highest result acts first; others act in descending order, roll additional d20 + MV for tie-breakers.

d20 + MV

ATTACK ROLL: Roll d20 + Level or HD. If total is ≥ target's AC, the attack hits.

d20 + Level/HD ≥ Target's AC

Example: To hit an prison guard with AC 12, a 3 level adventurer needs a 9 or higher.

ROLL DAMAGE: When you hit an opponent, roll damage based on the weapon. Subtract the result from the opponent's hit points (hp). Foes reduced to 0 (or fewer) hp are incapacitated. PCs and important NPCs will be dragged away (and later eaten) by monstrous foes or captured and tormented by intelligent foes.

AREA EFFECTS: Explosives, Molotov cocktails, and magic attacks with area effects have a 30' blast radius. Targets in the radius get a save roll to take only ½ damage (round down).

REST AND RECUPERATION: Hit points reflect the capacity to escape or stand hits. Hit points are fully restored at the end of each combat. If a PC goes below 0 hp, they may need a longer rest (or even special healing magic) because they're wounded. GM determines healing rules in such cases.

SITUATIONAL RULES

ADVANTAGE: When the GM determines a character has a tactical Advantage the player rolls a second d20 and takes the higher score. If they have Disadvantage, roll a second d20 and take the lower score. If there are multiple Advantages or Disadvantages, add them up and determine the net Advantage or Disadvantage. Whoever has more simply has Advantage.

Advantages do not stack — if you have three factors giving you Advantage you still simply have Advantage.

SAVES & CHECKS: Reactions to poison, mental powers, fear and other non-physical threats allow a Save roll. Roll d20 + Level/HD ≥ 10; GM may apply modifiers where appropriate. Also use a Save roll as a Check to determine the success or failure of anything other than combat (e.g. jumping across a chasm).

d20 + Level/HD ≥ 10

ADJUSTING TARGET NUMBERS: GM may adjust the target number for saves and skill checks depending on the difficulty.

HAZARDS & ARTILLERY: If something could kill a human, like a fall, a fire or a trap, it does 2d6 points of damage. If it could kill a horse, 3d6. If it could kill an elephant, 4d6. No more. Make a Save roll for ½ damage (round down).

HELPING: If a player can convincingly help another character, with GM approval, player makes an Athletic or Specialty skill check. If successful, helping roll grants +1 bonus to helped character.

GEAR AVAILABILITY: By default, don't track gear except for your weapons. If you need a specific object, ask the GM. The GM will tell you if you have that item, or, if it is in doubt, the GM may ask you to roll a d20 versus a GM set target number (typically 10) to see if you possess the item and have access to it or remembered to bring it.

d20 ≥ 10

MAGIC & WEIRD SCIENCE

In settings with magic or weird science, any spells and fantastic items are considered self descriptive and work according to the GM's judgment. Generally, spells last for one combat encounter (or one day for non-combat related spells). The range and area-of-effect of a spell is typically one large room, or effects one person per spell level. Damage is rated according to the Hazards & Artillery rules. Characters may only use spells from scrolls once, and only if a scroll's spell level is ≤ their own level.

RULE EXTENSIONS

Following is a collection of optional house rules and setting rules collectively called 'Rule Extensions'.

You can quickly identify the specific rules your game will use by describing it in your game description, for example: "This game uses the 1974 Style Rules from www.rpgsociety.org/1974 and uses the Called Shot and Exploding Damage rule extensions."

FANTASY games might use the main rules plus Combat and Treasure XP, Critical Failures and Morale rules.

WESTERN games might use the main rules plus Called Shot, Critical Failures and Hit Location rule extensions.

SPACE OPERA games might use the main rules plus Skills, Spaceships and Sweep Attacks rule extensions.

HORROR games might use the main rules plus Instant Death and Sanity rule extensions.

PULP games might use the main rules plus Exploding Damage, Minion and Sweep Attack rule extensions.

1ST LEVEL MAX HP

PCs get max HP at 1st level.

CALLED SHOT

A special attack may be made to hit a very small target or exact body part e.g. shooting a gun from an opponent's hand or roping a steer. This is a called shot made at a -4 attack roll.

COMBAT & TREASURE XP

Ignore Session XP rules. PCs require 2,000 XP times current level to advance to next level. Defeating foes grants 100 XP per HD, divided between the party. Some GM's may grant XP for money spent.

CRITICAL ROLLS

A roll of '1' always fails, a '20' does max damage.

DYNAMIC HP

Re-roll all hit points each time a level is gained (keeping higher total).

EXPLODING DAMAGE

If a damage die rolls the highest number possible (e.g. rolling 6 on a d6) re-roll the die and add the new results to the original die roll. Keep re-rolling the dice and adding the results until the die no longer rolls the maximum number.

HIT LOCATIONS

If you're running a game where you want to describe hit locations, roll a d20 when a character or creature is wounded. GM may impose a Disadvantage for certain outcomes — for example, a gunfighter hit in the main-hand has to use his off-hand and shoots at a Disadvantage (in addition to their -2D Wound penalty).

1D20	DESCRIPTION
1	Left thigh
2	Right thigh
3	Abdomen
4	Left-side hip
5	Right-side hip
6	Lower back
7	Left-side ribs
8	Right-side ribs
9	Main-hand
10	Off-hand
11	Lower main-hand arm
12	Lower off-hand arm
13	Upper main-hand arm
14	Upper off-hand arm
15	Chest
16	Upper back
17	Upper main-hand shoulder
18	Upper off-hand shoulder
19	Neck
20	Head

Monsters roll a second d20; take the more interesting result.

1D20	DESCRIPTION
1-4	Tail
5-8	Tentacle
9-12	Additional Off-Hand
13-16	Right-side wing
17-20	Left-side wing

If you roll a result that the monster doesn't have, roll again till you get a suitable hit location.

INSTANT DEATH

Instead of the default rules, when characters hit 0 or fewer HP, they die.

MINIONS

The GM designates some foes as Minions, typically with low HP. If target is killed any excess damage may be applied to the next closest foe, provided no friends are in the way.

MORALE

If outnumbered, after the first death, and when reduced to one-half or fewer hit points, monsters check for morale. The gamemaster rolls 1d10. If the result is over the opponent's hit dice, it will withdraw or surrender to get a better position.

NO ACCOUNTING

Don't track money. Your adventuring group's communal funds takes care of personal items and reasonable expenses.

NO AMMO TRACKING

Don't track bullets. A roll of 1 means a critical failure and your character is out of bullets or jammed gun.

SANITY RULES

Create a separate hp track called 'sanity', equal to your normal hp. Mental attacks whittle down Sanity points instead of HP. If your Sanity hits 0 your character is incapacitated. Sanity does not recover except with passage of days, or between sessions.

SKILLS

The GM creates a list of a dozen or more specialty skills appropriate to the setting. 1st level players start with 4 skill points to spend and gain an additional 1 skill point to spend with each new level. Taking a new skill costs 1 point and gives you a rank of 1, for example 'Medicine 1'. To advance a skill to a higher level requires points equaling the new skill level (e.g. advancing from Medicine 2 to Medicine 3 costs 3 skill points). Skill checks are made by rolling $d20 + \text{Level}/\text{HD} + \text{skill rank} \geq 15$ for success.

d20 + Level/HD + Skill Rank ≥ 15

SPACESHIPS

Treat spaceships like a PC or monster stats except HD are not included in dice rolls.

A basic ship hull costs 100,000 Credits (HP 10, AC 10, MV 12, with no attacks) and includes basic features such as propulsion, life support and sensors. Spend an additional 50,000 Credits to gain 10 points to upgrade a ship. Each point spent on armor modifies stats by +1 AC, +10 HP, -1 damage taken and -1 MV. Upgrading MV by +1 takes one point, with MV maxing out at 12. Atmospheric flight capabilities takes one point. Adding a shuttle bay takes one point. Each weapon system is a separate purchase and costs 10 points.

Treat move and damage at 'space scale'. Each MV point allows a space ship to move one 'space unit' (a hex or square) per day on a space map.

SWEEP ATTACKS

If attacker is using sweep attack weapons such as an automatic weapon, if a target is killed any excess damage may be applied to the next closest foe, provided no friends are in the way.
